PUBLIC RELATIONS

I highly recommend Julie Grosse for any executive position in marketing or business strategy and development. As a senior counselor for the largest public relations firm in the Rocky Mountain region, we have worked together on communications programs for small start-up companies as well as a publicly-traded technology provider to the foodservice industry.

For nine years, we worked together in a client/agency relationship and I was always impressed with her strong work ethic and global business perspective. She is fair, incredibly resourceful and always strategic. She is able to identify solutions to complex problems and implement those solutions quickly and efficiently. Her direction has always been well thought out and extremely clear, yet she manages collaboration in a team environment with ease.

She has superb communications skills and a good command of new media. She understands the benefits of an online presence in any integrated marketing program.

Her sense of humor is contagious and I've always appreciated the positive attitude she consistently brings to any situation.

Please call me or email me with any questions you may have. It's my pleasure to recommend her.

Sincerely,

Ann Dickerson
